By Marjorie R. Herberger
Deputy

PROCLAMATION

"In these great problems of government, I try not to forget that what really counts at the bottom of it all is that the men and women willing to work can have a decent job to take care of themselves and their homes and their children adequately; that the farmers, the factory workers, the storekeeper, the gas station man, the manufacturer, the merchant--big and small--the banker who takes pride in the help he gives to the building of his community; that all of these can be sure of a reasonable profit and safety for the savings they earn--not today nor tomorrow alone, but as far ahead as they can see."

Franklin D. Roosevelt
Radio address to the Nation
April 14, 1936

WHEREAS, the lives of all of us, including generations of farmers, factory workers, and storekeepers, have been enriched by Franklin D. Roosevelt; and

WHEREAS, Franklin D. Roosevelt led the nation out of the Great Depression and through World War II and left as his legacy a New Deal for the American people; and

WHEREAS, Franklin D. Roosevelt recognized the duty of government to serve as the champion of the common people of America; and

WHEREAS, Franklin D. Roosevelt recognized the responsibility of government to protect the economic and social security of all people, to invest in the education and the enhancement of America's human capital, and to maintain America's natural resources; and

WHEREAS, California has benefitted as much as any state by the legacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt through programs for work and security, through the creation of more than sixty state parks and beaches and other landmarks that distinguish our state;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim 1982 Franklin D. Roosevelt Centennial Year and call on the citizens of the State to reflect on and celebrate the accomplishments of one of our greatest presidents and the lasting improvements he has made in the life of the common people of this country.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of January 1982
