Founded in 1893, Madera County had a population of 157,672 as of 2018. As part of the Mother Lode, this county boasts several historic mines, but in addition to gold it also features other geological wonders such as Devils Postpile. As might be expected of a gold region, Madera also has a number of ghost towns, as well as organizations active in preserving the region’s unique character. If you are looking for exciting local history resources in the California History Section’s rich collections, then check out what we have for this county.
