

2009/10 LSTA – “California of the Past” Digital Storytelling Program (DST)

This pilot program provides libraries and their staff with a digital story station and the skills and technical knowledge needed to implement a local digital storytelling program. This program helps participating libraries engage baby boomers, patrons of all ages, diverse cultures, and other community groups in creating digital stories on the history of the local community, and of California, which is freely accessible on the Web.
