Introduction

Plan your visit to the California State Library's California History Section! This guide will:

- Help you identify what information you'll need to supply staff if you have questions about or want to look at an item
- Walk you through how to make an appointment
- Outline what to expect when you visit

Please see our research guides page for information on searching our resources including:

- Basic Search: Getting Started Searching our Catalog
- Advanced Search: Tips and Tricks
- Is It Online? Remote Research Options

Keep in mind that we have multiple resources you should consider consulting when doing research with our collections such as:

- The library catalog
- Our secondary databases (available remotely online):
 - o California Information File II
 - o City Directory Database
 - o Phonebook Database
 - o Gladding McBean Collection Architecture Database
- Our paper card files (available onsite only):
 - California Information File
 - o Photo File
 - Map File

If you have any questions or concerns, please don't hesitate to contact us using our ask-a-librarian service or via an email to cslcal@library.ca.gov.

Thank you for planning to come to the State Library!

Making a Pull List

We are a closed-stack library, meaning that staff must get most items for you. Once you locate an item you want to see, click on the title in the results list to view the detailed item record; then, note down the following information for our pulling staff:

- Item Titles These appear in bold at the top of the item record (circled on visual)
- Call Numbers Scroll to Locations. The call number is listed on the second line in the white box after the word "available" (boxed on visual)
- Permalinks Click on the chain symbol listed under "Send to" and labeled Permalink (pointer on visual).

Special Note:

Many items in our collection are viewable by appointment only. We strongly encourage you to make your list and contact us about the items you want to see at least three business days in advance of your visit.
