

LIBRARY DEVELOPMENT SERVICES

Annual Update | 2023-2024

INTRODUCTION

The California State Library helps local libraries create opportunity, deliver trusted information, and build community for all Californians.

Last year, the Library Development Services Bureau awarded and administered* over $850 million in grant funds for projects taking place in public, academic, and school libraries, as well as cities, counties, and non-profit organizations.

Programs that provide communities with access to high-speed broadband, literacy tutoring for adults, and library cards for every third grader help ensure that all Californians have opportunities to succeed. Resources like the New York Times and CalMatters provide Californians with trusted information. Communities are strengthened by summer meals and enrichment activities for children and families, internships for teens, and volunteer opportunities for adults. Library buildings are a source of civic pride and bring people together. Library vehicles ensure that library services reach all Californians.

Here we tell the stories of just a few of the State Library programs and initiatives that are serving and supporting Californians from Del Norte County to Imperial and Santa Cruz to San Bernardino. A full list of our grant programs, initiatives, and awards is at the end of this brief report.

The California State Library champions and supports local libraries and is a trusted steward of state and federal funds. This report covers activities that took place during the 2023-2024 fiscal year, which ended June 30, 2024. Some initiatives and partnerships may have changed since that time. To find out more about our work or contact us, please visit our website.

* Funds administered by the State Library include planning, implementation, evaluation, and monitoring activities carried out by Library Development Services for funds awarded in the current and previous fiscal years and funds to be awarded in the next fiscal year.

During the 2023-2024 fiscal year:

- Over $850 million state and federal funds were administered by Library Development Services
- 668 grants were awarded to libraries and other organizations
- Funding was awarded to libraries and organizations in all 58 of California's counties
- 192 cities benefitted from grants
- 186 library jurisdictions participated in statewide initiatives
- 165 of 186 library jurisdictions and nine cooperative library systems received at least one grant

California Library Literacy Services

California Library Literacy Services provided almost 12,500 California adult learners with reading, writing, math, and English language instruction this year. Local literacy services build learners' confidence and skills. The program provides one-to-one tutoring and group sessions that help learners achieve the goals they set for themselves. The goals might include becoming a citizen, getting a driver's license, or reading a medicine bottle and other health information.

Library literacy services work with community partners, adult schools, and community volunteers in hundreds of library branches to help Californians succeed.

Twenty-eight percent of California adults – over 8 million people – read below a third-grade level. More than 15 percent of California adults ages 25 and over lack a high school diploma. As a core library service, local library literacy services not only provide literacy instruction, they also connect adult learners and their families with other free library services including summer meals for children and teens, passes to visit California's state parks, and the opportunity to earn a high school diploma through the Career Online High School program.

"We're not giving learners anything they don't have in them already. We're just helping them unlock it. Watching somebody realize who they can be or reach a goal that they didn't think they could reach is one of the biggest gifts."

– Santa Monica Public Library Literacy Program Specialist

Case Study: Contra Costa County

Lhamo Tso, a 52-year-old married mother of four, came to the United States from Tibet in 2012. Lhamo knew she needed to speak English to get a job and support her family. She had never been to school, and she first learned to speak English in a class for asylum seekers.

Lhamo enrolled in Project Second Chance, Contra Costa County Library's adult literacy program, to increase her English reading, writing, and speaking skills in 2022. Working with her tutor, Lhamo has grown more confident. Now she offers storytimes that teach Tibetan-American children and others about her language and cultural traditions.

Case Study: Nevada County

At Grass Valley Public Library, adult learners Coti and Honey created “The English Language Experience” to help families practice their English skills in a fun and supportive environment. Coti and Honey recruited volunteers and set up the “Experience” in the library’s backyard. They created activities focused on emergency preparedness, vocabulary building, and feeling confident in stores and restaurants.

Over 30 learners and their families took part, despite the 100 degree heat. Practicing a visit to a restaurant, from getting seated, to ordering food, and paying the check, was a favorite activity for all ages. Participants had cue cards and props, role-playing as waiters and customers. The program wrapped up with a vocabulary bingo game.

Partners Family Resource Center, a community group funded by First 5 of California and part of the Superintendent of Schools office, was one of the library’s partners. Resource Center staff answered questions and provided referrals.

One helper at the library said: “The students hosting this event were an inspiration. They gave 1000 percent of themselves to ensure all participants participated and had a great experience.” One ESL learner said she enjoyed the “openness to learning, the friendliness, and clarity (of the event).” She went on to say, “Today I learned more English.”

CONNECTING CALIFORNIA LIBRARIES TO BROADBAND

California's communities need reliable, high-speed internet to access education, government services, healthcare, and emergency services. The State Library's equity-focused Broadband Program helps provide all Californians with access to high-speed broadband by ensuring that existing library network connections stay strong and connecting more libraries to the California Research and Education Network (CaREN), which is managed by the Corporation for Education Network Initiatives in California (CENIC).

The State Library has helped almost 1,000 of California's 1,127 library locations connect to CaREN, and the Broadband Program is working to connect more locations each year. The Broadband Program supports California's State Digital Equity Plan.

Program goals for the coming years are:

1. Universal High-Performance Broadband Adoption. The State Library will ensure every public library meets or exceeds California's broadband standards and is connected to CaREN or an equivalent service. This will enable libraries to provide communities with access to high-speed broadband and deliver core library services at the highest quality.
2. Affordability and Accessibility. Library Development Services will identify and administer state, federal, and other funding to provide California public libraries with the necessary infrastructure, equipment, and resources for their staff and patrons to affordably access online tools, programs, resources, and services.
3. Digital Inclusion and Literacy. Library staff's ability to assist patrons will be enhanced and the public's access to training and support programs will be increased to promote more proficient use of digital technologies and support digital equity.

LIBRARY SERVICES AND TECHNOLOGY ACT

The Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) distributes federal funds to state libraries in all 50 states, five United States territories, and three freely associated states. Funds are allocated annually using a population-based formula and are used to support the purposes and priorities of the Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA). The State Library's LSTA grantmaking is guided by our Five-Year Investment Plan.

Inspiration Grants for local libraries

Inspiration Grants give libraries the opportunity to react to “a-ha moments” and carry out innovative projects when inspiration strikes.

A mother and daughter discuss their family recipe included in Mission Viejo: Our Stories, Our Food

This year, Santa Clara City Library collaborated with community leaders and partners to provide services and educational programming to an underserved population living in and around the city's Lafayette-Haig neighborhood. The library's community-centered approach to gathering input about their programs and services helped them connect with people who weren't previously engaged with the library.

Community members served by Santa Clara City Library weigh in on library services and programming important to them and their families.

“The most important output was the connection we created with this community, as we now see some of them visiting the library for the very first time . . . One of the biggest outcomes is our newly found ability to measure success through the value of our conversations with community and truly absorb their feedback.”

- Santa Clara City Library Librarian

The Mission Viejo Library and Cultural Services Department invited community members to update a community cookbook that the city originally published in 1986. Mission Viejo: Our Stories, Our Food includes recipes and family stories. By creating and reading the cookbook, neighbors learned about one another's diverse backgrounds and histories and strengthened their connections with one another and the library.

“It can be changed up by adding eggs or another protein like ground beef or turkey. But the traditional way for me, is the best, because it brings back great memories of food and family. It also reminds me of how inventive my mom had to be to stretch every penny into every meal.”

Linda E. Nunez in Mission Viejo: Our Stories, Our Food.

Sustainable California Libraries

The Sustainable California Libraries grant program supported climate and sustainability programming for all ages. Funded projects focused on climate education, environment-focused civic engagement, and supporting climate resilience.

Over 220 public programs delivered by libraries

More than 8,800 Californians participated in local library programs

More than 35 community partnerships were formed or strengthened

"I want to be healthier and happier and how amazing that the library offers this opportunity to help me get there for free!!"

eBooks for All California

The eBooks for All California project is increasing Californians' access to eBooks—all free of charge to borrowers. The State Library has created a shared collection of eBooks that can be accessed by anyone with an internet connection and a library card from a participating California public library.

The shared collection gives children, teens, and adults access to titles that might not be available in their local library's collection. Local libraries, the California State Library, and Califa Group are partnering to grow the collection from its current 153,000 eBooks and audiobooks, including over 51,000 unique titles, 3,300 eAudiobooks, and almost 20,000 eBooks that are always available with no waiting, no holds, and no limits.

"This project has been instrumental in helping the library respond to recent challenges of bias in its collection development practices . . . The greater visibility of both newer, more-diverse collections and recent programming efforts alongside traditionally popular genre collections, reinforce, to the community, the idea that "there is room on the library's shelves for everyone" and (our) goal to create the active community of readers."

Huntington Beach Public Library project coordinator.

Lunch at the Library

Children and teens across California lose access to daily nutritious meals when school lets out for summer. Lunch at the Library supports public libraries in increasing the number of low-income youth receiving free meals during the summer months. It's a lifeline for struggling families, offering a reliable summer food source for children while connecting caregivers to essential social services and food bank distributions.

In summer 2024

360,234 meals served to California children 0-18

201 meal sites statewide

167,364 books given to families

1,146 visits by libraries to deliver programming at local community meal sites

309,007 pounds of food distributed to families in need through local partnerships

1,128 teen volunteers and interns

14,951 hours logged by teen interns and volunteers

10,752 enrichment programs offered

Enrichment programming included

- Farm to Summer programs that connected families with locally sourced, sustainable food, and provided hands-on food education
- Early literacy
- STEAM education

Teen interns developed social, emotional, and workforce readiness skills which will prepare them for future success. Children were engaged in learning activities throughout the summer which helped them return to school ready to learn.

- Planting and gardening classes and activities
- Cooking demonstrations
- Interactive cultural experiences

The Lunch at the Library program is supported with funds from the State of California.

"The program is great – a good idea for the community. We would like to participate in the next events. Everybody was very nice and friendly, and my child really enjoyed it. Summer can be long and it is also expensive, as well as tiring, cooking three meals a day. Thanks, it's a very helpful and meaningful program. MUCHAS GRACIAS."

Stay & Play

California's Stay & Play libraries created programs that engaged and supported Family, Friend, and Neighbor informal childcare providers and the children in their care. Thanks to funding provided by the David and Lucile Packard Foundation, 37 libraries across the state hosted over 750 Stay & Play sessions that

- Promoted early learning practices for Family, Friend, and Neighbor caregivers to adopt,
- Provided meaningful play opportunities that encouraged caregiver and child interactions, and
- Connected Family, Friend, and Neighbor caregivers to library and local community resources, and each other.

Family, Friend, and Neighbor caregivers recognized and understood the important role they play in a young child's development, with 95 percent of survey respondents reporting they helped the children they care for get ready to read, and 94 percent reporting they now see themselves as a kind of teacher to the children they care for.

"In our community, Family, Friend, and Neighbors provide a vital service that makes it possible for families to bring up healthy, smart, and safe kids. This program allowed Berkeley Public Library to serve Family, Friend, and Neighbors directly and plant seeds for even stronger early childhood outcomes in our city."

HELPNOW ONLINE TUTORING

The State Library’s online tutoring pilot program ran from August 2022 until August 2024. The program provided live, one-on-one, on-demand tutoring for Californians. It aligned with California’s educational frameworks and standards and focused on the needs of K-12 students. Children and teens accessed the service via a link from the State Library’s website or from their local library’s website. Tutoring was available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and was provided in multiple languages including Spanish, Tagalog, and Cantonese.

The successful two-year pilot was funded with a $6.4 million investment by the State of California. It cost 1.6 cents each time someone accessed the resource. Looking at the live tutoring sessions alone, it cost just $10.66 each time a student received tutoring.

During the pilot project there were:

600,000+ live help sessions

3.5 million+ uses of the database resources

15,000+ papers submitted, reviewed, and returned to students

Protecting California's Cultural Heritage

The State Library's Cultural Heritage Disaster Preparedness Project is protecting California's diverse cultural collections. Focusing on underrepresented and underserved communities, the project helps organizations evaluate risks to their collections and begin protecting them more effectively.

The Ready – or Not program, implemented in partnership with the Northeast Document Conservation Center, helps organizations determine how prepared they are to protect their collection in the event of a disaster, and the steps they need to take to be well-prepared.

The complementary Groundwork Grants, implemented in partnership with Myriad Consulting & Training Inc., invites organizations to apply for funding to address needs identified in the assessments. In the 2023-2024 fiscal year:

169 unique cultural organizations received consultations and emergency preparedness assessments

47 counties benefitted

22 grants were awarded in spring 2024

Groundwork Grants pay for disaster preparation goods and services, such as disaster recovery and spill kits, disaster planning development, and environmental monitoring equipment.

"The Ready – or Not assessment offered a lot of guidance for writing a disaster plan and suggested key focus areas for the plan. Since the assessment, we've written a disaster plan, installed a security camera in the collections area, installed a new portable air conditioner in the primary storage area, and limited public access to collections areas. As the first archivist at my institution, the "Ready – Or Not" project supported me in advocating for enhanced disaster preparedness and better environmental conditions for our collections."

Student Success Cards for All

Library cards help Californians lead successful lives. The California State Library is helping to ensure every student has a library card by the 3rd grade. Research shows that 3rd grade reading achievement can be a make-or-break milestone for future success.

By cultivating partnerships between public libraries and schools, California can put a “Student Success” library card in the hand of every 3rd grade student. These partnerships will give students access to public library resources and the best possible chance for success inside and outside the classroom.

Over the coming year, the State Library team will implement Student Success Cards for All programs in collaboration with public library leaders and educators in all parts of the state.
